THE opponents of the new constitution were not able to defeat that crazy quilt of statutory experiments, but their labors were not entirely in vain. Every one of the glaring inconsistencies and grammatical inaccuracies to which attention was called during the campaign are being corrected by the revisory committee and as far as it is possible some sense is being made out what one member said wasn't respectable nonsense. The trouble is the delegates, flushed with victory are disposed to make too many changes. The people have adopted the instrument as it stands and if a new one is to be substituted there was no necessity for the expense of taking a vote on it. At the instance of President Clay, who does not think Gov. Brown can be trusted with the apto appoint the committee to conform the a movement is on foot to give the appointment to the convention, increase the number to five and pay the members $13 a day for the work, another evdence of distrust for the governor. If the members are wise they will not persense, if they have any, and steer clear of radical and unauthorized changes, ing to change the section so as to adelse they may and doubtless will be made to regret it.

CONGRESSMAN TARSNEY, of Kansas City, is on the right track. He is in favor of cutting down the pension roll fully one-half and force the army of bummers and paupers that are enjoying its bounty to go to work. As a rule he thinks the northern democrats in Congress are contemptible cowards or they would not have acquiesced in foisting upon the country this most gigantic and for the most part unnecessary charge upon the people. Mr. Tarsney is right. Fully half the men who are now living off the government, never lifted a hand to perpetuate it and are in no manner entitled to the bounty of the government. There are fully 60,000,000 other people in this country who are deserving of some consideration and who should not have their money wrested from them to support an army of mendicants fully able to support themselves.

Dishorning Full Grown Bulls.

We notice that there is quite a strong tendency among certain breeders to dishorn a valuable bull in case he gets cross. The advice of The Dairyman is to take greater precautions, but not dishorn. We firmly believe that injury to the breeding power, or prepotency of the animal, will be quite apt to follow if he is dishorned. The most of those who have advocated dishorning have done so without much study along these lines. careful not to mutilate a valuable sire or in any way to produce an injurious shock to the nervous system. ### FIRST NATIONAL BANK but, your marriage?" OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock ..... $200,000 Surplus ...... 16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' hability by an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $400,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1853, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stantord in 1832, has had practically an unintergupted existence of 32 years. It is better supplied now with tacilities for transacting business prompt by and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicated.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of

T. J. Foster, of Stanford; Forestus Reid, Liucoln county; J. W. Hayden, Stanford;

A NONCONDUCTOR.

They had told me that she was a soulless creature, frivolous and light; that the sole preoccupation, the one aim of her life was pleasure. In fact I had made her acquaintance at a ball, surrounded by an infinite variety of adorers, smiling, disdainful, allowing herself to be worshiped, completely indifferent. Naturally, after a turn of the waltz, in which she floated, light and elegant, I remained an enthusiast in regard to her, and since the reputation of a skeptic, cial evening, leaning her arm on the railing of her theater box, she had turned toward me one of her enigmatical glances, loving emperor, was commanded to araccompanied by a slight bending of the range and regulate Chinese music on head.

The Judge and the Witness. Even the dignity which hedges round the judicial bench is not always safe protection from conscious or unconscious sarcasm of too blunt witnesses. A certain judge who, when denuded of his official wig, was as bald as a billiard ball, had before him, by a strange irony of fate, a dispute as to the real proprietorship of a patent hair restorer. During the progress of the case the judge, who sometimes indulged in a little sarcasm at the expense of a witness, asked blandly whether the restorer had ever been known to restore wornout broomheads to their pristine condition of hirsute luxuriance, or the lost bristles to old clothes

Of course there was a laugh, and the judge's wit was rewarded with looks of admiration. But the witness, to show that he had every faith in its being a sure hope for human baldness at least, replied very innocently that, "If I didn't | I have opened in connection with my Hotel, the know it was necessary for your lordship to always wear a wig in this court, I should have declared that you had experimented with my hair restorer on yourself."--London Tit-Bits.
